WILL PAVE MUD HOLES

To pave from the end of the West Main street pavement to Main Street Springs and from Main street on Mechanic to the corner of Bank, borough Councilman J. A. Nellis has spent a busy week signing up 28 persons for a total contribution of $6,000 to cover the cost.

The new pavements are to be of concrete, and the cost of the two stretches will be about $15,000. The West Main Street section is to be about 700 feet in length, and the Mechanic street strip about 1500 feet. A local contractor has given a bid that is very reasonable, and expects that he can finish the jobs inside of two weeks, once started.

The work will begin as soon as the money is procured and the weather settles.

At the last meeting of the Borough Council, Solicitor Morrison and Councilman Nellis broached the subject and approval was given, if the money could be procured. The borough could bond itself for but $5,600 and the citizens must make up the remaining $11,400 to meet the total.

Councilman Nellis is seeing each person individually, but takes occasion to make a public appeal for everyone to subscribe to this fund.

Mr. Nellis says that the streets where the paving is to be done are now in such state as to be unsightly. Persons living in the neighborhood must drive their vehicles through the mud, and endure the difficulty atmosphere caused by these lakes of mire. If you would have this paving done, see Mr. Nellis.

SAMUEL S. FRENCH.

Samuel S. French, 71 years old, died on Sunday at 8:30 o'clock, after an illness of a week. Death was due to uraemic poisoning.

Mr. French had resided with his daughter, Mrs. Claude Irons, about 7 years. He was born in Townsville, Crawford county, in 1848, and worked as a paperhanger and decorator in Bradford.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Irons he is survived by two sons, Robert and H. H. Irons, both of Bradford, and five grand children.

Burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery in Bradford, Rev. Arthur Gleason performed the funeral service at the Irons' home.

OFFICERS MUST ARREST TO SEARCH FOR LIQUOR.

The right of search and seizure of liquor in private homes was declared absolutely illegal when the raiding officers entered homes for any other purpose than to make an arrest, and then they must be armed with a warrant for some particular individual, according to a decision made last Thursday at a meeting of the district attorneys of the State at Harrisburg, at which E. G. Potter was in attendance.

The right of officers to stop trucks suspected of carrying liquor, was also declared illegal unless the officer had a warrant for the driver's arrest.

However, the transporting of liquor by truck was made unlawful by a recent ruling by State Prohibition Director John T. Davis. This is true even when the holders of liquor permits attempt to transport their holdings by truck.

There were sixty counties out of the total number represented at the meeting, and all the district attorneys stated that there were a large number of violators in the toils of the law.

BUCKTAIL POST MEETING.

The meeting of Bucktail Post, American Legion next Monday will be an important one. Reports on the matters of building a local hall for a clubhouse, and concerning a county memorial hall will be made.

GLASS FACTORY WILL LOWER COST HOPED FOR.

A new move toward the realization of a bottle factory here on the old site, at a much reduced cost than that already figured upon is under way.

Plans which will likely be brought to a definite conclusion within a few days make almost certain that a bottle factory will be opened here, but by various changes in the method of operating and construction over the manner first suggested will bring about a more reasonable cost.

MANY PUPILS ARE RETARDED

Saying that 35 per cent of the pupils in McKean County schools were retarded from one to seven years, and that he had found pupils as old as fourteen years in the third grade, Prof. C. W. Lillibridge, County Superintendent of Schools, addressed a round table conference at the Lock Haven Normal School last Friday.

The occasion occurred during a conference of superintendents from eleven counties from this end of the State.

Prof. Lillibridge gave facts to define his statements, and his remarks opened the discussion of the retardation of pupils which is now causing much concern in scholastic circles. Three other superintendents gave similar views, and remedies for the condition.

Dr. Francis B. Haase, assistant director of the State teacher bureau attended the conference and set forth the policy of the state department of education in the certification of teachers.

The salary act, he explained, provides that every teacher within the state must have four years High school training and two years Normal school training, the latter being represented by seventy semester hours or credits. In order to do justice to teachers who had taught for many years and who had neither acquired permanent state certificates nor had the required training, four semester hours would be credited for each year's successful teaching, up to a maximum of sixty. Thus, a teacher who had taught successfully for fifteen years, would have only ten credits to make up. In case where there is any possible doubt, Dr. Haase added, the policy of the department is that the interpretation shall be in favor of the teacher.

OIL BURNER NOW BEING PROMOTED BY MR. GARLICK

Telling of the new Wat-R-Oil Burner and its bright prospects, Mr. B. T. Garlick, whose offices are now in Buffalo, where he is engaged in promoting the sale of the burner, writes to the Miner the following communication:

"Our company is known as the Scientific Heating Company, with office at 20 W. Utica St. Buffalo, and we are distributors for Western New York for what is known as the Wat-R-Oil Burner (pronounced Wateroil.) a burner that burns fuel oils and a burner that can be placed in any type of furnace or hot water boiler for heating homes stores, etc.

This burner was invented by a man by the name of Patterson from Lockport, N. Y., and whom I met at Jamestown, N. Y., last April. He afterwards sold his patent to the Harrisburg cooperation for a large sum of money, but at that time did not have a control valve that worked perfectly. I took over the Buffalo territory and with Mr. W.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS CHIP IN $12,000

The County Commissioners last Monday executed their part of the agreement into which they entered some months ago with regard to electricity, and advanced $12,000 in readiness for use in the project as soon as the Public Service Commission puts its O. K. upon the transaction of the funds.

After being sent back to the Keystone Electric Company for various changes, the electric contract will likely be signed by the Borough Council at its meeting next Monday night.

The $3,000 worth of bonds to be issued by the borough will be offered about the first of May, and will undoubtedly be sold without the slightest difficulty.

Yesterday Misses Edna Leary and Lucille de Vogue, of Ridgway, and Miss Hazel Godding, of Kane, were in town selling preferred stock of the Keystone Electric Company. This is also in connection with the local electric movement.

The young ladies prove apt saleswomen, and urged those who are considering the purchase of the stock to communicate with them.

ATTEND MASONIC BANQUET IN OLEAN ON TUESDAY

Greatly pleased at the royal reception they received at the Masonic meeting in Olean on Tuesday night were the following:

E. E. Drake, E. W. Workley, Webb Hopper, R. E. Burdick, W. H. Halpenny, Claude Heath, H. C. Wells, J. A. Nellis.

H. S. BOYS ON GREAT TRIP

The four members of the High School Boys Club who attended the "Hi-Y" conference at Warren, returned on Monday morning with Prof. William Brownell, their leader. The boys who made the trip in behalf of the local club were Kenton Abbey, John McDermott, William Metzgar, and Albert Johnson.

Next Friday night will be the big event for the local club, when they will throw open their new quarters and proudly display them to the supporting members of the organization. Refreshments will be served by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. Several out-of-town speakers will make addresses.

Nearly $700 has been contributed already to the boys' club, and the rooms are being equipped for their various usages. The front meeting room will have included in its furniture a piano; there will be a reading room, a game room, another for boxing and wrestling, and others for different activities.

The trip to Warren was an eventful one, according to those who made it.

Four hundred and eighty-four boys from all points in western Pennsylvania were present. The local contingent arrived in Warren Friday and were well quartered.

The conference opened with a banquet in the basements of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches. The bodies from the various sections made things "hum" during the banquet by their yells, and general hilarity.

On Saturday evening another banquet was held, and on Sunday evening the conference closed.

The local boys were informed in various speeches the way a club such as the local one should be conducted, and its possibilities.

Kenton Abbey, president of the S. H. S. boys' club, while at the conference took notes of what he had heard in preparation for a talk he expects to give here, describing what was said and done at the conference, so that the whole club may benefit.

JUDGE BOUTON TO MAKE ADDRESS BEFORE WOMEN

Hon. Joseph W. Bouton will be the speaker at the meeting of the Smethport League of Women Voters on Wednesday evening, April 5th. His subject will be "The Courts of Pennsylvania." Other numbers on the program are: Reading of State Constitution, continued, Mrs. Belle Eagan; Duties of the District Attorney, Mrs. E. G. Potter; Dessert, Mrs. F. A. McCoy. A cordial invitation is extended to those interested to attend his meeting.

HOOTCH HUNTER'S NOSE MONGREL; LED HIM ASTRAY

A "rum hound" whose nasal sector was undoubtedly sharpened by that absence which makes the heart grow fonder, detected last Sunday night or early Monday morning the presence of home-made wine in a vacant house on Main street.

One can imagine the aforesaid "r. h." snooping along in the stilly night, suddenly stop, and point his mongrel proboscis in the direction of the aroma that floated to him. With unerring instinct he walked to one of the windows, raised it eagerly and repaired to the spot whence the odor came, and lo!

Two jugs of beautifully colored liquor reposed there.

In haste, the corn-cob plug was jerked forth from one of the jugs, and the gluttonous intruder quaffed deeply in one gulp a sufficient amount of the wine to stagger an ordinary human in a trice.

Little wonder, however, that the wine had been so carelessly disregarded by the owners of the vacant house, for the would-be discovered—too late for the first hearty swallow—that the liquid was bitter unto gall, and reeked with the stench of many a day of its vinegarish, unhealthy condition.

The rum hound's nose had led him astray, and proved its mongrel origin.

Evidently he got naught but pain for his pains, as nothing else but the wine was tampered with.

The owner of the house wishes him much discomfiture.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cory celebrated their fiftieth anniversary of their wedding last Saturday afternoon at their home in Coryville with about fifty guests present.

Mr. Benjamin Franklin Cory and Miss Ada Lavinnia Day were married on Tuesday, March 26, 1872, at Farmers Valley.

During the half century of married life but one sorrow by death has come, this occasion being the passing of one son about 12 years ago. This is the only death that has occurred in the family since the couple were married.

The celebration of the anniversary was indeed a pleasant one, a program being rendered consisting of old-time songs, narratives and the relation of incidents which occurred in the years past.

Mr. and Mrs. Cory were the recipients of many handsome presents and congratulations poured in from all sides from their neighbors and friends.

The house was decorated with golden daffodils, and the bride's bouquet consisted of golden sweetheart roses.

Practically all of Mr. and Mrs. Corys' married life has been spent in McKean County. They have 5 daughters and 12 grandchildren and one great grand child.

Fritz Guenter, of Coryville, one of the grand children, recited a fine poem touching upon the difference between the days when his grandparents were young and the present date.

L. H. RUSS, LEGISLATURE CANDIDATE HERE.

L. H. Russ, candidate for the State Legislature, of Bradford, was in town on Tuesday, and reported good progress in furthering his candidacy for the nomination.

He expressed himself pleased at the reception he had received, and expects to get many votes from this end of the county, although he expects to show great strength in Bradford.

Mr. Russ declared himself for the inauguration of a budget system, and stated that he was in favor of a good school system and that he had no criticism for the present management of the State school affairs.

TO OPEN NEW CASH STORE HERE ON APRIL EIGHTH

A carload of groceries is expected to arrive here today to stock the new store of the Home Grocery which is to open in the Imperial Hotel Building on April 8.

A. D. Flack, district manager of the Globe stores, made the announcement yesterday. The prospective store is to be one of the Globe chain and is to be operated on a strictly cash basis.

CENTERS WILL HELP WOMEN

Arrangements have been made through Miss Josephine Cramer and the Farm Bureau to hold three "clothing centers" in McKean County under the supervision of the State College Home Economics Extension Service, beginning on March 29 when the first will be held in Bradford in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The object is to teach women to economically make their own clothing.

The sessions at Bradford will be from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening each of the two weeks following except Saturday. The second center will continue from April 25 to May 10 in the Coryville Grange Hall, with two sessions daily, beginning at 9:30 in the morning and at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Lafayette women will have the third center from May 11 until June 10 in the Lafayette Grange Hall with two sessions the same time as at Coryville.

Miss Emma Donathen and Miss Alice Zollman are the specialists in charge of the three centers. Any woman in McKean County having clothing problems will be welcomed at the centers. Choose the nearest your home, and visit it early. There are no charges whatsoever for this help.

The Pennsylvania State College, through the Home Economic Extension Service began during the last part of the past year to conduct what are known as "Clothing Centers." These Centers cover a period of two weeks with two sessions a day for at least five days out of each week and give an opportunity for five or six hours a day of supervision and work.

Two trained clothing workers are in charge and the plan of the work is as follows:

FORREST NOURSE GETS ELECTRICAL CONTRACT.

Forest H. Nourse, of the Forrest H. Nourse Electrical Company formerly of this place, has been awarded the contract for all the electrical work on a new community hotel in Alberquesque, N. M., where the young man and his family are now residing.

This was the word received by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nourse, of East Smethport, his parents.

While the exact amount of Mr. Nourse's bid for the work is not known, it was a trifle higher than the lowest bidder, but because of the former local man's knowledge of drafting and his layout of the hotel plans won him the contract. The Nourse bid was understood to be somewhere in the neighborhood of $7,000.

The hotel is to cost $350,000, and is to be of six stories.

Mr. Nourse stated in the letter to his parents that he had also been doing other work in Alberquerque one of the contracts he successfully completed being that of the wiring of the Spanish Presbyterian church.

SPRING MEET HERE APRIL 20

The spring athletic meet for the county schools will be held here at the Fair Grounds on April 20, according to a definite decision of the principals who met in Bradford on last Saturday morning. Assistant County Superintendent Black and Prof. Bright from here attended the meeting.

A fine list of events was mapped out, and Dr. A. R. Livermore was appointed field judge; J. Mansell, of Bradford, will be starter, and A. R. Hazzard, of Kane, and Joe Ertz, of Bradford, timers.

The track at the Fair Grounds will be scraped and put into shape for the events.

The local school athletes who are trying for places on the teams are being put through the paces each day by Dr. Livermore and Howard Workley, on the cinders near the school. Nothing but jogging has been attempted yet, but some good sprinting material is expected to round out before the meet.

The list of events for the meet includes: 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, half mile run, half mile relay, 1 mile run, 220-yard hurdle, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, also a 50-yard dash for girls of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, a quarter mile for boys of the seventh and eighth, and a relay obstacle race.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A DOZEN FOR EGGS HERE.

Twenty-five cents is the general price of eggs here at present, the lowest it is said in five years.

The price of the hen product has taken an almost unheralded drop during the past month or two, falling from 90 cents and $1.00 a dozen to their present depth.

Hens which had not been laying for months have now decided to begin operations, with the result that their owners now have plenty of eggs when the price is down, thereby causing them just chagrin.

STATE GRANGE LIKELY TO BACK JOHN S. FISHER

Harrisburg, March 27.— Alignment of the Grangers of Pennsylvania for John S. Fisher for Governor at the primaries of May 16, is predicted following the issuance of an open letter by John M. Malcolm, past master, Pomona Grange 58 yesterday, urging their support for the Indiana County Republican candidate.

Mr. Malcolm is one of the most influential agriculturist in the entire State, and his opinion of John S. Fisher is reflected in the closing paragraph of his letter. "I am sending you this letter, in the interest of the public welfare of our community and Commonwealth and I trust you will present these facts to the members of your Grange, with a prediction that your influence in behalf of Mr. Fisher will reflect credit to your own judgment."

MAJOR REED OUT FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR

Pittsburgh, March 21.—Major A. David Reed, of this city, made the following announcement today of his candidacy for nomination as United States Senator on the Republican ticket at the primaries of May 16 next.

"Numerous messages have come to me from business and professional friends throughout Pennsylvania, as well as from many of my army friends, urging me to be a candidate for the United States Senatorship and offering support in a campaign.

"They have appealed to me on a score that unless Pennsylvania can be represented by Senators who are relatively young, it can never hope to regain the prestige and influence in national affairs which it has enjoyed for the past half century.

"I have therefore, decided to become a candidate for nomination as United States Senator at the coming primaries."

LOUISA N. ARNOLD NOW 97 YEARS OLD

SAYS SHE IS FEELING BETTER EVERY WAY; NOT AS WEAK AS SHE HAS BEEN.

For several months Mrs. Louisa N. Arnold, a lady now over 87 years old and a citizen of Brimfield, Ill., has felt weak, tired and run down. She could hardly sleep at night. She is now improving and is again getting rest from her sleep. Mr. Risius called on her the other day and she told him this: "I am a lady 87 years old and have for several months felt weak, rundown and could hardly sleep at night. One day a McNess Man recommended F. W. McNess' Nutritive Tonic to me. I have used one bottle and now I can sleep nearly all night without much trouble. I have now started on the second bottle. Thanks to the McNess Man and the McNess Co., for such a wonderful tonic."

F. W. McNess' Nutritive Tonic is a great reconstructive Tonic and and flesh builder for Old People, Pale People, Weak People, Thin People and Convalescents. It contains principally Extract of Cod Liver Oil, Extract of Malt, Hypophosphites and Nux Vomica all of which have been recognized and prescribed by Physicians for years because of their remarkable Nutritive and flesh building properties.

M. S. Parker & Sons, East Smethport. Telephone No. 137J. Your McNess Man can supply you with F. W. McNess' Nutritive Tonic.

COLLEGES HOLD TRACK MEET BY TELEPHONE

Conducting an athletic meet by telephone is a novel method of deciding intercollegiate contests. It saves expense, time and trouble, though, perhaps, it may lack in the excitement produced when the competitors are visible to one another. Not long ago Amherst and Wesleyan colleges held a telephone track meet, in which Amherst took the honors. According to the Wesleyan Alumnus:

"As an event was run off at either college the result was telephoned to the other and posted on a large bulletin. Thus the spectators at each field knew how the meet was progressing. The final score was 8-5, in favor of the Purple and White, which means that Amherst won eight entire events and Wesleyan five. Ten men were entered by each college in the event, their total times or distances added and these figures used in judging the events. It is a new idea original with "Doc" Fauver, Wesleyan's head coach, inasmuch as he desired to have the colleges compete on a larger scale than has been the custom in past years.

"In all probability, if it can be arranged successfully, Wesleyan will compete with both Amherst and Williams in track events next year by this method.—Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times.

TELEPHONE SERVICE SO GOOD POLICE NEARLY MISSED CATCH

The telephone has frequently played its part in catching thieves, but here's a case in which it was almost instrumental in letting a man accused of embezzlement go unmolested—and all because it did its work so well!

The telephone in the New York detective headquarters rang one morning recently and a voice said, "This is Detective Aylward, of St. Louis, speaking." The voice asked the arrest of a certain man who had gone to one of the New York hotels, and that he be held for further instructions.

So clear was the tone as the man made his request that the police were at first in doubt as to whether the call could have come all the way from St. Louis and were inclined to the theory that they were being hoaxed by some New York practical jokers. However, detectives were sent out to make a tour of the hotels of the city, and in the meantime further particulars arrived from St. Louis.

The man was finally located and when arrested had in his possession $13,000, according to the police. The charge against him in St. Louis was the embezzlement of $14,000 and receiving stolen property.

MAINE POINTS THE WAY.

The result of the special election of the Third Main district on Monday does not bear out the claims of those who are insisting that the popularity of the administration is decreasing; and that the country is disgusted with a "do nothing Congress" and prepared to turn the government over to the opposition.

Practically two-thirds of the voters of the district cast their votes for the Republican congressional candidate. The proportion of the total vote cast by the Republicans was 66 per cent in 1920 and 62 per cent. this week. The election followed a hard fought primary which aroused some bad feeling. A few days before Democrats had made considerable gain in municipal elections. On election day country roads were almost impassible, owing to a heavy fall of snow and sleet, so that the vote was light in the Republican portions of the district and heavier in the industrial centers, where there is still much unemployment.

Monday's election puts the Republicans off for a good start in 1922. The Congressional and National committees supplemented the district and state organizations in making an effective fight.

Congress is, of course, by no means through with the program upon which the Republican party will appeal in the autumn for the people's support. The tariff law is a measure of special importance to natural prosperity and to Republican success. The treaties which are the outgrowth of the Washington conference remain to be ratified. Business conditions are growing better, things are on the up-grade. The horizon of the country and the party is bright with hope.—National Republican.

Tropical Spider Makes Trouble for Telephone

Certain parts of South America are the habitat of a large spider that weaves its web around the telephone wires strung on the crossarms of poles. The spider is enormous and its web is heavy and of a thick texture.

The telephone companies were much perplexed when in the late evenings and nights frequent short circuits tied up their lines. After a time they discovered that the trouble arose from the heavy spider webs. When the sun was out, the webs were dry and there was no trouble; but at night, when the webs were covered with dew, short circuits occurred. The only remedy is constant brushing away of the webs from the telephone wires.

HELD FOR AUTO DEATH

Little Valley, March 25.—Lawrence Karl of Allegany was arraigned before Justice of the Peace D. W. Congdon here yesterday at 2 p. m., waived an examination and was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter in the first degree.

The charge sets forth that he was driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated when the accident which caused the death of Roger Hayes occurred.

It was stated that an effort would be made to have bail fixed by Justice G. W. Coje of Salamanca.

Professing ignorance of the accident that cost the life of one young man and may result in the loss of leg of another, Lawrence Karl, age 26, of Allegany, was arrested late Thursday in connection with the running down at Allegany of two seminarians of St. Bonaventure's college by a motor car whose driver did not stop.

Karl admitted that he had been drinking on the night of the accident, and said that though he did not remember of having any collision on his way from Olean to Allegany, it was possible that he was responsible. He expressed a desire to help the officers clear up the case and expressed deep regret.

Karl was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Night of Ulean, following information obtained from children living on the same street as Karl, who said that one of the headlights of his car was broken. Pieces of broken headlight lens had previously been found at the scene of the accident east of Allegany. Karl is said to have told an officer just after his arrest that he had been thinking about the accident on the Allegany road and of the possibility that he had been involved in it and that he had examined his car for evidence. It was about this time that he was placed under arrest.

He showed the officer the broken light on his car, but said he had no recollection whatever of striking anything or anyone. In the car with him was a brother, who, Sheriff Annis says, also was intoxicated.

Karl was taken to the Little Valley jail.

The accident occurred just east of Allegany Wednesday night when two students, walking at the side of the road toward St. Bonaventure's college, were run down. Roger Hayes, aged 26, of Ireland, was killed, his skull being fractured, and William Cawley, of Scranton, Pa., had his leg badly fractured. A third student, William Moore, is said to have had one leg grazed by the speeding car.

The man under arrest has a wife and two children at Allegany. He is employed by the Vacuum Oil Company at Olean.

COLONEL JOSEPH H. THOMPSON AT WARREN

Warren, March 21.—When Colonel Joseph H. Thompson, state commander of the American Legion, arrived in Warren last evening, he was greeted by more than 200 members of the Chief Cornplanter Post 135, and Mayor F. J. Lyons of Warren.

After a sight-seeing tour by auto, he was taken to the headquarters for the purpose of meeting the members and business men of the city.

From the Post rooms, the party went to the First Presbyterian church where supper was served by the auxiliary. The post orchestra entertained with music. Following the dinner, Charles H. Crandall gave a short talk in which he related the history of the famous Indian chief from whom the post derived its name. At the close of his talk he presented to the post a large oil painting of the first chief to sign a treaty with George Washington, Cornplanter of the Senecas. After the speech by Mr. Crandall, the men adjourned to the Strand theatre where Colonel Thompson was greeted by a capacity crowd of citizens of the county who listened to his address.

THIEVES BUSY IN THE BRADFORD SCHOOLS

Bradford, March 25.—At the regular meeting of the board of school directors held last evening, the superintendent of schools, James F. Butterworth, and directors, brought up the matter of the petty thieving which has been going on in the high school for some time past. Complaints have been received by the school authorities from parents of pupils, in regard to the thefts of goloshes, money, fountain pens, articles of clothing and lunches have been known to disappear also.

After the matter had been thoroughly discussed, the board unanimously agreed that vigorous measures should be taken to apprehend the culprits and that any student found guilty of theft should be permanently excluded from school.

BOYS SEND OLD CANNON BALL THROUGH HOUSE.

Johnsonburg, March 21.—Last Saturday afternoon some boys with a full spirit of mischief, pulled off a stunt that they will long remember. Their thoughtless resulted in quite a bit of damage, yet by some strange fortuity it did not result in injury to any person.

The boys were at Laurel Hill cemetery. They secured one of the big iron cannon balls that were stacked around the G. A. R. plot, and started it rolling down the hill in the direction of Vinnard's Addition. With every foot down the steep hill the heavy ball gained momentum, and when it reached the bottom it was going as though it had actually been fired from the mouth of one of the big guns at the Soldiers' Plot.

The ball landed in the home of Andred Mishanko, tearing away a window, plunged through the parlor door, through the dining room and into the kitchen before it finally came to rest. Wood work and plaster were demolished in its wild course.

ASKED HOME OF JUDGE GRANTED SIXTY DAYS.

Olean, March 23.—Judge Dennis Keating expects winter to linger two more months, according to a sentence he gave in Police court yesterday afternoon.

Henry Mendal, 47 years old, homeless, who was arrested on a vagrancy charge, told his honor he desired to asked a favor when he was arraigned in Police court. The judge gave him a signal to ask.

"I'd like to go up for the rest of the winter," declared the prisoner.

"Winter? It's spring now," said his honor, who pointed to March 22, the second day of spring, on the calendar.

"But I'm looking as the snow carried along by the wind," said Mendal, with a glance at the window

The judge admitted the prisoner was right and gave out the 60-day term in the county jail.

SAWS THROAT WITH KEEN-EDGED AXE; STILL ALIVE

Olean, March 24.—After devising the unique method of committing suicide by cutting his throat with a keen-edged axe yesterday, "Tom" Dowd, a well-known character of around Allegany, will get well and so had all his trouble for nothing. He is expected to recover at the local Clinic here.

The attempt was made at a farmhouse on the Five Mile road.

Dowd also sawed his wrists in his attempt to make a thorough job of it. He absolutely refuses to talk or give any reason for his act, but about Allegany it is said that Tom has been acting queerly of late.

He is 55 years old.

After getting an almost razor-edge on the axe Dowd apparently grasped the weapon in both hands and sawed across his throat, cutting a bad gash, but not severing a jugular or the windpipe.

He then slashed both wrists with the axe and ran from the farmhouse and down the roadway. Chief of Police John Woodstock was notified after others had given first aid to Dowd and he was brought later to the hospital.

Dowd is an old-time railroader, and has a crippled hand from the experiences of the old draw-bar coupling days. For several years he has worked on various farms in this locality.

He was temporarily working on the Five Mile farm when he attempted his life.

OIL OF WINTERGREEN FATAL TO CHILD.

Bradford, March 25.—Thomas M. Daly, 2½ years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Daly of Bradford, died last night under peculiarly sad circumstances.

Yesterday morning the little one got hold of some oil of wintergreen and it is supposed to have swallowed about a tablespoonful of the hot liquid. He was hurried to the office of a physician where treatment was administered and he appeared to be all right. Last evening the lad became gravely ill again and the physicians found the patient beyond aid. Death followed at 10:30.

MISLAID HIS AUTO.

East Orange, N. J., March 24.—E. Reugg of West Hoboken admitted today to state motor vehicle Commissioner Dill that he had mislaid his automobile on a Weehawken ferry March 4 "just as one would forget an umbrella."

The manner of it was this, he explained:

"He drove aboard the ferry, in his machine, entered the cabin and became absorbed in his newspaper. When the shore was reached he landed with the foot passengers, took a taxicab to his office and never thought about his motor again until he was informed that it had been found.

The commissioner explained that he really mustn't be so absent-minded, for police had spent many perfectly good hours trying to solve what they thought must be either a suicide mystery or the theft of an automobile which bandits feared to drive off the ferry.

Reugg pleaded that it was the first time he had broken a traffic law in 14 years and the commissioner suspended sentence, although remarking that he didn't know whether such a forgetful man was fit to drive an automobile.

HELP PREVENT FOREST FIRES.

Harrisburg, March 27.—Sportsmen and officers of recreation organizations in Pennsylvania have been asked to help the Department of Foretry to keep down forest fires this spring. Commisioner Pinchot has sent the following letter to the sporting associations:

"One of the most encouraging evidences of progress in forestry in Pennsylvania is the steadily increasing interest of fishermen and hunters in the prevention of forest fires. As a leader of the sportsmen in your community, I know that I can count upon you to continue and even to increase the exceedingly valuable cooperation which the members of your association and other sportsmen have given to the Department of Forestry.

"The sportsmen of the State understand that more forests—more game and fish is a true statment and the backeing of the sportsmen is one of the things this Department counts on most.

"Last spring, in response to my request, fishermen refrained very largely from smoking while moving in the woods. I am asking again for your help in securing once more the same precaution by your members and your friends.

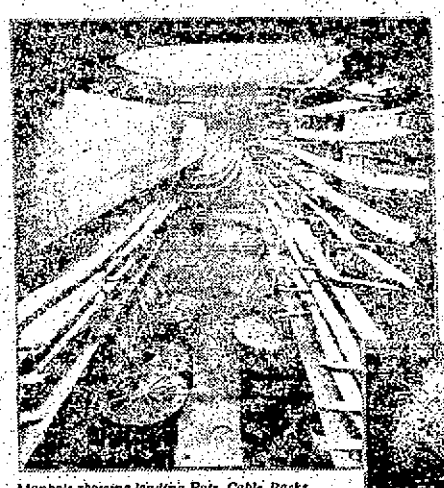
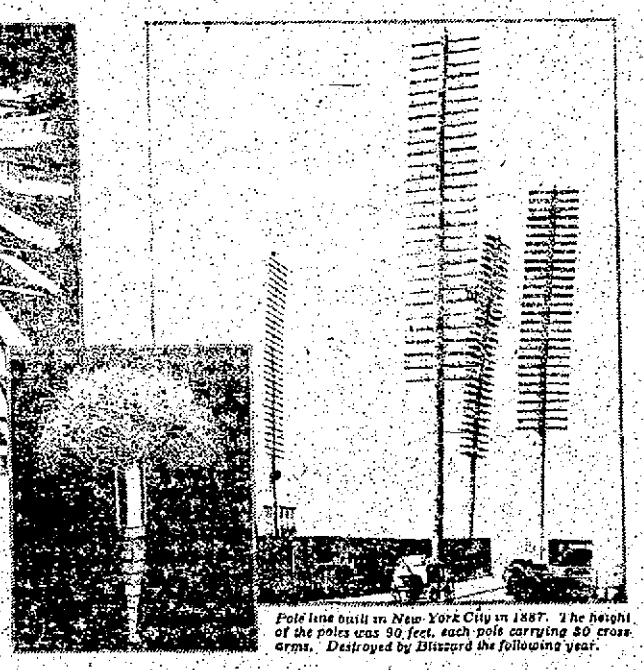
Cables Carry 47,000 Telephone Wires Under Single Corner of New York's Busiest Street



Manhole showing loading Pots, Cable Racks, and at the back, Cables entering Ducts.



Cable 9½ inches in diameter carrying 2,424 wires fanned out to show circuits.

Pole line built in New York City in 1887. The height of the poles was 90 feet, each pole carrying 80 cross arms. Destroyed by Blizzard the following year.

There is perhaps no single street in the country so well known as Broadway, New York, and there is no point on Broadway where the underground telephone traffic is heavier than it is at the crossing of Franklin Street. More than 35 lead-covered cables traverse the street, each cable containing on an average nearly 700 telephone circuits making a total of over 47,000 wires under this single thoroughfare. This vast number of wires, if placed upon a single overhead line, would require poles two miles high. If the poles were only as high as the Woolworth tower, Broadway would be roofed in by twelve such gigantic lines and a veritable canopy of copper.

In the Bell Telephone System over 15,000,000 miles of the 26,000,000 miles of wire is placed in underground conduits; the cost of this invisible portion of the telephone plant being more than $300,000,000. While the bulk of this subterranean construction is in metropolitan districts, some of it is to be found in toll circuits, such as the cable between Boston and Washington, which is 453 miles long and runs entirely underground, and underground construction is also used in smaller places where this can be done economically.

The earliest telephone cables were laid in the streets of Boston and although carrying only about twenty circuits, proved to be extremely inefficient. Not only was the quality of conversation very poor, but because of the electro-static relations within the cable, conversation showed a great tendency to leak into neighboring circuits and it made little difference whether the receiver was attached to the same pair of wires as the transmitter or to any other pair.

In fact, it appeared at that time that a cable would be quite impracticable if more than a quarter of a mile long.

In those days, however, the telephone, like the other branches of the electrical industry, was in its infancy and revolutionary advances have occurred since. By 1889, a few cables containing fifty circuits were successfully installed and operated. These cables were two inches in diameter. The technique of making telephone cables has advanced steadily ever since, and many of the cables that are placed today, although only two and five-eighths inches in diameter, contain 3,400 wires. The great saving which results from the use of such cables may be illustrated by the fact that a single 2,400-wire cable carries as many circuits as could be placed upon eight pole lines of the type and size shown in the accompanying cut. This enormous increase in the carrying capacity of a single cable has been accompanied by a very great reduction in the amount of copper required for each circuit, with the result that the installations which have thus far been made have enabled the Bell System to save upwards of $70,000,000 for the telephone-using public in first costs. Were the greater cost of upkeep of overhead construction to be taken into account the showing of savings would be much greater

FISHER, PEPPER AND REED.

After the coming election and following the inauguration of a new Republican governor, the voters of the entire State expect a great house cleaning at Harrisburg. And now they are looking over the field of candidates to determine which one will bring about a thorough search of the dark places wherein grafters are spawning and from whence they come out to share on the carrion of the dead hopes of an outraged people.

Once, some years ago, the affairs at Harrisburg were in a tremendously muddled condition, when the easy-going Pennypacker had permitted a deft and complete looting of the treasury by human leeches in whose make-up consicence had evidently been eliminated.

Edwin S. Stuart, the Republican candidate, promised to clean house, and he did.

John S. Fisher, the present candidate for governor from western Pennsylvania, headed the investigating committee then and what he did to straighten out the affairs of the party resulted in great reform, as everyone knows.

Now again, such reforms are needed. Fisher knows how to bring them about. He knows where the dark places are, and if we may believe in his record, he is not afraid to bring them to the light of public gaze.

McSparran, the Democratic candidate, is calling for a general reform with his election as a panacea. Republicans are able indeed to do their own reforming, and John S. Fisher, of Indiana, Pa., is the man for the job.

Nominate him, and you will later elect a Republican governor.

The Democrats are thoroughly united this year. The death of two great Republican leaders of the State has given the opposition wonderful confidence, and they are out to take advantage of a possible split in the Republican ranks.

With Fisher at the head of the Republican ticket, and George Wharton Pepper, a clean, honest, youthful, aggressive, and brilliant lawyer, and Major Reed, the same sort of a lawyer, and an able soldier in addition, as Fisher's aides, running for the United States Senate, there can be nothing but victory ahead for the Grand Old Party.

IN MEMORIAM.

Last Friday was the anniversary of the passing of a great American churchman—Cardinal Gibbons.

The world paused for a moment to consider the anniversary of its loss of a noble man, for truly he was. Even the President paid tribute. Catholics everywhere felt keenly the remembrance of his parting from the world.

Shortly after Cardinal Gibbons had made public the stand of Pope Benedict throughout the war in regard to the Catholics of the various warring countries, the Pope broadcasted through the press his praise and approval of the cardinal's definition of the Pope's position.

The writer on a regular visit to the Cardinal for one of the Baltimore papers had the pleasure of handing him the communique from Rome which had come over the cable a few hours before. It was the cardinal's first inkling of the Pope's praise, and the unrestrained, almost beatific, joy expressed in Cardinal Gibbons' face upon reading the cable will remain ever in my mind as a true reflection of the prelate's inner self suddenly revealed.

He asked to keep the copy of that cable, and it undoubtedly was one of his treasured possessions until death.

THE McCONNEL CASE.

What a sad awakening some of former State Dry Chief McConnell's friends have had.

He certainly did have many persons buffaloed. He was getting rid of the liquor in certain sections, alright, and if we can believe his indictment, he was transporting it over to his own "backyard" and peddling it to the boys of his neighborhood for a million or so.

Nothing like turning an honest penny or two while one holds high office. More than one good man has gone wrong when the opportunity presents itself so alluring.

Some persons say that prohibition is not being enforced, and consequently is no good because "look at the large number of persons being caught". But then there is a law against murder, too, and we still have plenty of murder trials.

On the other hand, the violation of the liquor laws do not seem so serious to the public because at one time liquor was entirely legal and the nation grew up with the idea that liquor was surely not so bad if legal. Therefore, with so many hundreds violating the thing which was once held legal, is it possible to combat the situation by liquor laws, because in the violation of them the public feels that it is not doing such a great wrong, after all?

It is a toss up.

But in the meantime, one is forced to let the law take its course.

ROLL OF BLACK DISHONOR.

The Philadelphia Inquirer editorially puts on the "Roll of Black Dishonor" the names of the four Republican Senators who voted against the Four-Power Treaty. The quartet who did this is as follows: Borah, of Idaho; Johnson, of California; France, of Maryland; LaFollette, of Wisconsin.

These men deliberately befouled their party—their own names and reputations they undoubtedly blackened by previous acts—by declaring against President Harding's and Secretary Hughes' treaty to safeguard against future strife between nations. They did this because of a desire for the notoriety of being different, as this to their distorted way of thinking is fame, though the nation knows it is infamy.

Borah, Johnson, and LaFollette, are "bitter-enders" of long standing, along with Reed, of the Democrat side. France, however, is a recent addition. Perhaps the three first named have quite a following in their native States else they would not be sent back to the Senate after elections, but it is a known fact that the Republicans of Maryland who elected France are now ashamed of his acts since his entering the Senate, and are repudiating him.

His trip to Russia was a complete fiasco, and he brought upon himself the just criticism and contempt of the country for his views in favor of Bolshevism had been pumped into his indiscriminating mind by the wily Lenine, Trotsky & Company.

LET THE POOR FLAPPER ALONE.

Hasn't the discussion over the flapper pretty nearly reached the limit of reason? The young girl has for years played a larger part in American social life than she has been allowed to play elsewhere. She may have resembled in Mid-Victorian England Mr. Podsnap's blushing Young Person, thought that is doubtful; but she has long been quite completely emancipated in both countries. If the flapper of today differs from her sister of yesterday, the difference is superficial. Young Person, though that is out" age or just under have always been heedless, irresponsible and just a little silly. Why not? It would be a pity if youth had the gravity of age.

The world does not turn on the doings of the flapper, after all, though she might be pardoned, in view of all the talk about her, if she believed it did. If anything could make her self conscious, rude and indifferent to the demands of good taste and good breeding, it would be this assumption that her ideas, impulses, habits, are of supreme importance. That young people of either sex should not be permitted to run wild everyone will agree. That they are too often allowed to do so by heedless parents is only too obvious. But it may be permitted to doubt if human nature, in parents or children, changes very much though manners change. And although it may be true in a sense that "manners maketh man," there is danger in laying too much stress upon more superficialities of conduct.

Let the poor flapper alone. The exuberance of sixteen is fundamentally a perfectly normal and healthy quality. It may take strange forms without really vitiating character. At all events it is a harsh judgment to say that the girls of today are worse than their predecessors. In many respects they are better. Their independent, joyous spirit is something to admire rather than to chide. One thing is certain—this scolding will accomplish nothing. "A wilful man must gang his own gait," says the Scots proverb. So must a wilful girl; and Vergil long ago told us it was the nature of a girl to be wilful.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

NOT SPRING.

The editor said to me, said he:
"A poem on 'Spring,' I
Would be the thing,
Really seasonal 'twould seem';
But I replied,
With gesture wide:
"Nix on that worn out theme."

"That frazzled old theme of 'Spring'
Is just the thing
If you wish to bring
Hot tears to the eyes of your patrons;
I'd much rather tell
Of the mystic spell
Of our girls, or sprightly young matrons."

"Why, every year since man began
To preserve his thinking
With paper and inking,
We read the effusions on 'Spring,
Dear Spring';
Each sweet young thing
Who hopes for a ring
Will rave about 'Spring' and of
'Spring will sing.

We'll lay off 'Spring' this year, old top;
It will come just the same,
And be stormy or tame,
And we'll take it, enjoy it, go on with the game;
And the birds will sing,
But never a thing
Will this singer sing about 'Spring' this spring."

—Gene Byles.

IMPALED ON MEAT HOOKS.

Salamanca, N. Y., March 23.—Fred Sander, one of the proprietors of the Sander meat market, was impaled on a meat hook while at work yesterday in a rear room of the market where a new refrigerator is being installed.

He was standing on a box which slipped from under him and threw him backward. He struck the hook which penetrated the lower part of his back to a depth of about two and one-half inches. He was there until released from the hook by workmen who were near.

CARS IN COLLISION.

A collision between cars owned by Frank Hartnett, of Bradford, and Claude Slade, of near town, at Coleville, resulted in damage to both cars, but no one was injured.

The Hartnett car was standing alongside the road in front of the Cohn lease at Coleville, and Slade drove off the cement and struck the other machine.

A HARD SCHOOL

By MARY LOUISE BUZZELL

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Jerry, mending his lobster pots on the beach, scowled as he saw Ellen and "that fellow" Templeton hurrying down to the inlet where the young man's boat lay; for Templeton, while ostensibly taking a much-needed rest, was paying assiduous court to the girl whom Jerry had looked upon as his future wife ever since they had played together as children.

Jerry turned his back on the approaching couple, but when they had passed he gave his rival a surreptitious glance—noting the white silk shirt, the immaculate white trousers and the wrist watch. Turning suddenly, Ellen caught his criticizing eye, laughed, and called back:

"Better forget your lobster pots today, Jerry, and bring Sarah over to the island and picnic with us!" to which her escort added a languid, "Yes, dear boy, get your Sarah and come!"

"Thanks!" snapped Jerry. "I have no 'Sarah'—and I've something to do besides picnicking and—and—reading poetry!" seeing the book Templeton carried.

Receiving no answer save a tolerant shrug from his rival, he sullenly resumed his work, but a moment later, after a troubled look at the sky, he strode after the picnickers, and as Templeton pushed off the wharf, he gave him a brusque:

"Better keep an eye on the nor'wester, Templeton, those clouds mean wind; and I'd come in with the tide, it's tough rowing against it."

Templeton raised his brows, then acknowledged a supercilious: "Ahl. Thanks awfully, my good man, but have no fears. I've handled a boat several times before today," with an emphasis on the "several" that made Jerry long to pitch him into the water; but instead, with a smothered "Humph!" he swung up the beach to the cottage he shared with his crippled grandfather. The old man seeing Jerry he stopped smoking to mutter fretfully:

"If that chap had a sense of h-h-sculpin, he'd keep off'm the water with such craft aboard!" waving his pipe skyward; then added with a senile chuckle: "I shouldn't wonder if he found it true that 'experience' is a hard school, but fools will learn from no other' after he gets home!"

"Very likely, but if anything happens to Ellen through his ignorance, I'll—I'll—"

"You main' to let that whippersnapper grab your girl away right from under you nose?" queried the old man irascibly.

"Why, no!" blazed Jerry, "but he flatters her till she—"

"Doesn't know any more'n she ought, er?" interrupted his grandfather. "All the same, I'd kinder row out toward the island—you see what's coming?" Jerry nodded and sat down.

The weather grew more threatening every minute; but he waited till the tide turned, sending choppy waves inshore. Then, unable to bear the suspense, he ran down to his dory, thrust the oars into the oarlocks and pushed off into the foaming waters.

Something sunshed into the dory, scraped by and was gone. Twisting around, he strained his eyes to make out the tossing thing astern—it was Templeton's empty boat being driven shoreward.!

His breath came in horrified gasps as he sensed the awful significance of the sight; then wild rebellion fired his soul as he thought of Ellen being dashed and buffeted into nothingness by the cruel waters. It must not—should not be! He sent a stentorian shout toward the island; it came back in a mocking echo.

Again and again he called her name, with a wild hope that somehow, in some miraculous manner, she had escaped death. Suddenly the island loomed before him—a black blot against the sky. With a mighty effort, he sent his spent voice shoreward and listened. His heart almost stopped beating for very joy, for across the lashing waters a faint hail came to him out of the darkness. It was Ellen's voice!

With a superhuman effort, his strained and swollen muscles beached the dory, two sodden figures were lifted over its high side to safety, and in silence, save for murmured "Thank Heaven!"—Jerry backed away, turned his boat toward home, and the racing tide did the rest.

Giving no heed to the babbled explanations of the modified Templeton, he lifted the shivering girl out and carried her up the beach to her home, but before reaching her door he asked:

"By what fool stunt did Templeton lose his boat?"

"He tied it to a rock with a silly little rope, which sawed in two in no time after it came on to blow, though even then he might have got it if he hadn't been afraid of getting wet!" answered the girl, angrily.

"But the salt water would have ruined his wrist watch," said Jerry, dryly, which remark brought an hysterical giggle from the girl in his arms. But the next moment she pulled his head down, and with her arms tight around his neck, whispered:

"Jerry, I simply detest a wrist watch on a man, and I just adore the smell of lobsters. Come over tomorrow, dear!"

And with a hug that left her breathless, Jerry whispered a jubilant: "You bet, honey!"

GREAT MAN'S SON FORGOTTEN

Lafayette's Boy, Named for George Washington, Was Once a Refugee in This Country.

The Century company says that comments provoked by "Sword of Liberty," recently published by them, impressed them with the fact that the average American seems never to have heard of George Washington Lafayette.

It seems strange that his story was not exploited during the wartime resurgence of enthusiasm about Lafayette and his noble friendship for this country; yet how many Americans know that Lafayette had a son named after his fast friend, General Washington, or that the boy was at one time a refugee in this country?

The story is part of the background of the account of two revolutions—American and French—contained in the book. Following the earlier phase of the French Revolution, during which Lafayette was so immensely popular, and after the hostility to his moderation had developed which drove him into exile, he sent his son to America, to the care of the American George Washington for whom he was named.

It was his boy, according to the authors, Frank W. and Carlisle J. Hutchins, who, on returning from America, dug up from the garden of the Paris residence where they had been buried the two swords given to Lafayette by the American congress and the French republic in recognition of his services in the two republics.

This Georges Washington Motier de Lafayette was born in 1779; he was therefore but thirteen when he fled to America in 1792 and his distinguished father to the neutral territory of Liege.—The Argonaut.

PARIS MUSICIAN LIKES JAZZ

M. Milhaud, Leader of Polytonic School, Says He May Some Time Compose Jazz Sonata.

Charles Henry Meltzer, well known music critic, who has recently returned from a study of the modern European musical world, in an article in the December Forum, called "The Polytonic Six of Paris," describes an interview with the much talked of Paris musician, M. Milhaud, as follows:

"Some day," M. Milhaud said, "I may compose a jazz sonata. The jazz form has been quite misunderstood. One may at times hear excellent music in the halls and much bad music is performed in concert rooms. I have told you of my love of melody. By this I mean that in my compositions I try to give equal importance to all the instruments I employ.

"My orchestra, of course, varies according to the nature of the works I write, and I have tried my hand at a good many styles, one form which I am fond of is the chamber symphony. I have turned out four examples of the sort so far, each scored for only a few solo instruments. I have published various piano compositions, among them a set of six which I grouped under the name of 'Le Printemps.' I have made scores for ballets with large orchestras and just now I am halfway through a tragic, lyric drama, named 'Les Eumenides.'"

To Attempt World Flight.

London regards with admiration Sir Keith Smith and his brother, Sir Ross Smith, who, two years ago, flew from London to Australia, covering the 11,294 miles in just under 28 days, and who now announce that they have begun preparations for a flight around the world.

The distinguished brother aviators are not after the long non-stop flight record. They feel that aviation will develop itself on routes upon which stops are possible. What they wish to prove is that there are practicable means by which every section of the civilized earth can be reached by flight. Just as they now are reached by ship and train, and that this can be done at an immense saving of time and perhaps of actual cost of transportation. Fortunately for themselves and the cause they advocate so energetically the distinguished Smith brothers have plenty of money with which to demonstrate their theories.

Taking It Easier.

"The Japan of Lafcadio Hearn and Lotl is no more," said Hamilton Hartley, the author-traveler, at a Washington dinner party. "Labor troubles, you know.

"You have heard of the Japanese rickshaw runners? These men trot between the shafts of a rickshaw at the rate of five and six miles an hour. I mean to say they used to trot at that rate. Since they've been unionized it's hard to get them out of a walk.

"Once, having forgotten my valise, I offered a Tokyo rickshaw man a double fare if he'd hurry back to my hotel for it. Well, as he galloped down the road his fellow workers stared after him in amazement, and one of them yelled:

"'Hey, what are you running for? Aren't you working today?'"

Trade Schools for Women.

Argentina's recently organized Social Federation of Women (Confederacion Social Feminina) has for one of its chief objects the establishment of trade schools for women and girls in order to teach the elements of the manual trades, thus making more women economically independent and enlarging the sphere of their activities. Thus far it has organized two such schools, one of which has an attendance of 40 girls, who are learning to make men's and women's clothing, baskets and the like.

L. Higgins a heating and construction engineer of Buffalo, a friend of mine we have produced a valve, Mr. Higgins being the inventor, that is working perfectly. We have just sold to the Harrisburg people the right to use our valve in the U. S. for a sum of money and a royalty on each outfit used in the United States.

The outlook is very bright for oil burners for in may places gas is playing out and coal is very high in price, and then with our burner you have the same onvenience as with gas and eliminate all dirt and ashes where coal is used besides the labor of taking care of the furnace.

Our company here in Buffalo consists of W. H. Gallup, J. S. Walker W. L. Higgins and myself.

The Missionary Society of the Baptist church will meet in the church parlors for their study class Wednesday, April 5 at 2:30 p. m. All members are urged to be present and bring last copy of the Missions.

Remember that Story of Mark Twain's
—where he tells about the boat having to stop every time its whistle blew because there wasn't enough steam left to run the engine?
To our way of thinking there is a big moral in that story, which can be applied to our every day lives. Thousands of fine people generous and open-handed folks—in good health, with good positions, on fire with the joy of living, carefree and strangers to trouble, are using up too much of their money in blowing the whistle of "high living," and neglecting to store up a reserve to "buck the current" when the tide runs against them. All of us can be sure of one thing—trouble will come—in some way or another. How much better it is to have a reserve fund in the shape of a Savings Account, ready to meet the emergency, than it is to have financial worries heaping upon a mind already distressed with other troubles.

NEW DANCE HAS MADE HIT

Gothamites Take to Importation From London, Though It Seems Rather a Children Pastime.

There's a new dance stunt in town, it's the balloon dance and it's from here and London, don't you know. It's a bit of all right, too.

A few nights ago it was introduced at the Rendezvous one of Broadways most exclusive supper clubs and it made a tremendous hit, says the New York World.

A toy balloon is tied to the ankle of each dancer of the fair sex and the idea is to get through a dance letting he, she or it alone with the balloon still intact. That is the big idea.

The idea of the dance is to keep as many balloons as possible without stepping on them. Of course, on a crowded floor the chances have about as much chance as a snowball in hell of a Sunday picnic, but New York likes a game of chance so the woman who can dance from the door to the dais with her balloon still intact.

One young lady of the Rendezvous proudly won the prize, but the popping of the colored spheres sounded one of the poppiest of champagne corks.

Anyway, it's a great boon for the balloon manufacturers. For the dance floors of the average boudoir sanctuary are so small that the only way to keep off one's partner's balloon is to step on her foot, and that is not very popular with the fair sex.

RETURNING TO SWORD PLAY

New York Children in Their Games Seem to Have Abandoned "Modern" Warfare."

Playwrights and theatrical producers predict the return of the costume play and the swashbuckling melodrama. But the youngsters of New York seem to have realized this prophecy in their games.

Wooden swords, umbrella rib dirks and crossbows have supplanted dummy rifles and barrel stave artillery pieces that were popularized by the World war.

Sword play, with hickory rapiers and fragile paste cover cutlasses, seem to have asserted a romantic appeal over infantry charges and "over the top" barrages. The vacant lot is no longer no man's land, but a rock-strewn lunch or a cliff infested moor. Where Frankie and Johnny would go each other in mortal combat as Spaniard and Dutchman in the lowlands.

There is more realism in the sword than in the pistol, with which one must say "Bing!" "Bang!" Rock piles have become castles after the fashion of the Arthurian legends and lance armed knights guard drawbridges of planks or old doors over imitation moats.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

One of Great City's Tragedies.

An old-time tragedy of the Central Markets, Paris, has been recalled by the death at an advanced age of a once rich woman, who for many years made a poor living there overturning garbage cans and selling anything of value she might be able to find therein. Her name was unknown, and for nearly half a century she was merely called "Princess." Fifty years ago it was fashionable for persons of high society in Paris to pass a riotous night in the cafes and stalls of the market. On one occasion a fashionable woman, one of a gay party, was robbed of money and jewels, presumably by her escort. Left penniless, she refused, for reasons easily surmisable, to communicate with her husband or her family in central France. Instead she sought employment and gradually fell into extreme poverty. She got her nickname owing to her invariable habit, when asked about her former life, of replying: "Ask no questions; I am a princess from a far country."

Smiling Porches.

More houses are being built with inclosed porches than ever before; you may walk down long streets of dear little homes whose porches smile at you through tiny panes of glass. You pass medium sized places with grounds, comfortable houses set back from the road, and large mansions—in every one somewhere you catch the glimpse of an enclosed porch-room. Old-fashioned houses follow suit, and back of the rounded Colonial pillars are fitted small-paned glass partitions that inclose the porch as effectively as though it had been built that way in the beginning. In the summer these are lifted out, leaving the porch as before.—The Designer.

Canada Pushing Honey Industry.

It is expected that Ontario's honey crop next season will be marketed largely on the co-operative system, as a result of the activities of the committee appointed recently by the Ontario Bee Keepers' association and with the assistance of the Ontario government. The honey will be graded and have a registered brand for the protection of consumers. Each package will have a distinguishing number, by which it can be traced back to the producer.

Snails in London Restaurants.

English officers who served in France during the war acquired in many cases a taste for frogs' legs and snails, hitherto unknown to London menus. When they returned home they demanded the same tidbits in London and now both frogs' legs and snails are conveyed daily from France to London by airplane. Some of the London restaurants are doing an enormous business in serving these two articles of food.

DRY CHIEF MC-CONNELL HELD

Philadelphia, March 26.—Bail aggregating $168,000 was fixed yesterday by Judge Thompson in the United States District Court for William C. McConnell, former dry director of this State and forty-six other defendants, who were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury Friday on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States government in illegally releasing and transporting thousands of gallons of whiskey in the McConnel regime. Bail for McConnell and Major Samuel B. Wolf, former dry director of the Pittsburgh office, was fixed at $10,000 each.

Bench warrants for the arrest of the forty-seven persons indicted were given to Frank Mathues, United States marshal, who said that he would hold the warrants until tomorrow afternoon to give the defendants a chance to surrender and enter bail.

McConnell, who is in Florida, was told of the indictment against him and he would leave and come directly to this city to surrender. He said he would leave Florida either today or to-morrow.

McConnell's bail was set at $10,000, and the same amount also was fixed for Major Samuel B. Wolfe, McConnell's chief of the Pittsburgh office; Albert E. Slater, who was the director's secretary in this city; Hiram W. Benner head of the permit department; "Sally" Stuzer, so-called "King of Bootleggers"; Samuel Glumberg, Stuzer's right-hand man, and Emanuel Borshinder, a restaurant keeper. Second and Walnut streets. Robert McCartier, a wholesale liquor dealer, Seventeenth and Wharton streets, was held in $5000 bail, while Judge Thompson fixed $3000 for Harvey Smith of Pittsville.

Jacob Shuaker, who was chief group head of the prohibition forces in this district under Leo A. Crossen and McConnell and one of those indicted with McConnell, was ordered to furnish $5000 bail.

Bail for the other defendants named in the indictment was fixed by Judge Thompson as follows:

Leo Kearns, $3000; John Kearns, $3000; Robert R. Williams, $2000; Joseph Rosen, $2000; Moris Smulowitz, $2000; Abe Fierman, $2000; Ben Fierman, $2000; Adolph Schoenbrun, $2000; A. J. Gast, $2000; Jacob L. Williams, $2000; Charles Haemovitz, $3000; Simon Friedman, $2000; E. A. Von Minden, Daly, $5000; J. DeGardeyn, $2000; John Dougherty, $3000; Harry C. $5000; John DeGardeyn, $2000; Anthony Mosolino, $3000; William L. Edwards, $2000; Martin McGrail, $2000; Joseph M. Branagan, $2000; Jacob Slonovitz, $2000; Peter Robin, $2000; Thomas Calig $2000; George W. Thomas, $2000; Justus Volk, $2000; William N. Robak, $2000; George Konder, $2000; Max M. Pochapin, $2000; Harry Parlser, $2000; George Beck $2000; Ralph M. Kromer, $2000; Harry M. Raub, $2000; Perry Rosenfield, $2000; Max Mesbare, $2,000; and Joseph Tito, $2000.

AMERICANS GREATEST USERS OF TELEPHONE

The extent to which the people use the telephone, as measured by the number of calls per person during the year, is a reliable index of the telephone development of a country. For the United States the average number of calls made during 1920 per person was 179. Of all the European countries Denmark comes first with 120 talks per person. For Germany the number is 53, for Switzerland 30, for Great Britain 19, for France 12, and for Belgium 10. It is interesting and significant that in Denmark about 95 per cent of all the telephones are now operated under private ownership, while in the other European countries mentioned the service is operated by the government.

WANTS TELEPHONE BOOK'S HELP IN REBUILDING GERMAN TRADE

The telephone directory has performed many unusual functions, but that of re-establishing trade relations suspended during the war is the altogether new rôle which the Philadelphia directory is to play, if the plans of an enterprising merchant of a leading German city materialize.

This live-wire Teuton, who signs himself "G. Koch," writes to the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania:

"We take the liberty to ask you a great favor.

"Undersigned, who has been in the U. S. A. for the last fifteen years, has the wish to do his part to help build up trade relations again between this and your country.

"Your Classified Telephone Directory would be of great help to our aim to get in touch with the business people of your City.

"We therefore ask you to kindly send us one of these directories at our cost, C.O.D.

"It is not necessary that this be a brand new one, an old one will answer the purpose."

On June 8, 1875, while experimenting on his Harmonic Telegraph, Alexander Graham Bell made the discovery that led to the construction of the first speaking telephone.

FOUR-POWER TREATY RATIFIED BY SENATE

Washington, March 24.—The four-power Pacific treaty, the center of controversy over accomplishments of the Washington Arms Conference, was ratified by the Senate today with no reservation except the "no alliance" declaration proposed by the foreign relation committee and accepted by President Harding.

Th final vote was 67 to 27, representing a margin of four over the necessary two-thirds, was recorded after the opponents of the ratification had made more than 20 unsuccessful attempts to qualify a Senate action by reservations or amendments distasteful to the administration. On the deciding roll call 12 Democrats voted for the treaty and only four Republicans opposed it.

Dying hard, the irreconcilable element which had opposed the treaty on the ground that it establishes an alliance among the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France forced thirty-three roll calls during a four and a half hours session set aside for final action on the resolution of ratification. They made a showing on a proposed reservation to invite outside powers into Pacific "conferences" affecting their interests, mustering 36 votes for the proposal and 55 in opposition.

HARDING PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF CARDINAL

Baltimore, March 25.—The Baltimore Catholic Review today published a letter from President Harding paying tribute to the late Cardinal Gibbons, whose death occured one year ago.

Writing to the Rev Albert Smith editor of the Review, who was the late cardinal's secretary, the president said that the cardinal was a man the nation could ill afford to spare, for his long and earnest service for both church and country had made him one of the most useful and wise counsellors in a wide realm of public concerns.

YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT BY THE ADMINISTRATION.

New York, March 26.—The first year of President Harding's administration has been a period of progress with an almost incredible achievement in economy, Vice President Calvin Coolridge decided today in an address before the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

Asserting that public employes had been reduced nearly 60,000, the army by 85,000 and large reductons proposed in the naval forces, all of which were beginning to show in the government's appropriations and expenditures, the Vice President said.

Comparative Figures.

"Prior to the war the annual appropriations were a little over a billion dollars. For the last fiscal year they were slightly more than five and onehalf billons. For the present fiscal year it is estimated that this will be reduced to somewhat less than four billions and for the next fiscal year, for which appropriations are now being made there will be a reduction to about government would not exceed the three and one-half billions. The interest and payments required for the public debt are about one billion, three hundred and fifty millions. The cost of ministering to to the requirements of the Veterans Bureau is about one-half a billion. The cost of the army and navy is over eight hundred millions and another quarter of a billion goes into pensions.

"If from present expenditures, there be deducted those items that arise from the war and the extra amount now being expended on good roads and the army and navy, the present cost of running the pre-war cost by more than two or three hundred millions.

"This represents an achievement in economy which is almost incredible."

OVER 10,000 TELEPHONE COMPANIES IN COUNTRY

There are twenty-five companies associated with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company comprising the Bell Telephone System and over 9,000 independent companies whose telephone stations are connected with the Bell System, and over 900 independent companies whose telephone stations are not connected with the Bell System.

There are in the United States thousands of rural telephone lines and associations operated mainly on a mutual or cooperative basis (not rated as companies), of which 28,000 connect with the Bell System.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company is the parent company of the Bell System. Besides giving a centralized and administrative service to its associated companies, it ties them together with its own long distance lines. It maintains for the whole Bell System the research, investigating and experimental departments, the manufacturing department (the Western Electric Company) and supervises the accounting and financial operations.

MORE COUNTIES NOW ON DRY LIST, IT IS SAID.

The license saloon is losing its grip in Pennsylvania. Thirty-three of the sixty-seven counties in the state have abolished the saloon. Four other counties are in the doubtful list, with two of those likely to go "dry" this week according to the latest figures compiled by Harry M. Chellant, editor of the American Issue, the official publication of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League.

Following is a list of the counties in which licenses are refused and granted, also the four doubtful known counties, where no definite action has been taken:

"Dry" counties—Armstrong, Beaver, Bedford, Bradford, Butler, Cambria, Columbia, Crawford, Fayette, Forest, Fulton, Greene, Huntington, Jefferson, Juniata, Lackawanna, Lycoming, Mercer, Mifflin, Monroe, Montour, Perry, Pike, Somerset, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Venango, Warren, Wayne, Somerset, York.

"Wet" counties—Adams Allegheny, Berks, Blair, Bucks, Carbon, Centre, Chester, Clinton, Clearfield, Cumberland, Dauphin, Delaware, Elk, Erie, Franklin, Indiana, Lancaster, Lawrence, McKean, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Philadelphia, Schuylkill, Washington, Westmoreland.

Doubtful list—Cameron, Clarion, Potter, Snyder.

GAS RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH IN KANE.

Kane, March 27.—George Rainey, a cutlery worker, was found dead in his room in the St. Elmo Hotel, yesterday afternoon, about 1 o'clock, and whether he took his own life or whether death resulted accidently will probably never be known.

On Friday night night, about 10 o'clock, Rainey engaged a room at the hotel, registering "G. Henry," and paying the clerk for it. He went out and later he returned and again paid for the room, Landlord Eckborg then being at the desk. He is said to have appeared nervous. He retired at about 11 o'clock and other boarders recall that they heard groans coming from the room about midnight, but they were not such as would denote that anything was serious, and no investigation was made.

On Saturday morning the maid was unable to get into the room, occupied by Rainey and reported to the landlord that the occupant was still sleeping. Nothing more was done until yesterday when a maid again attempted to gain admittance. It was then that the door was forced. On the bed was Rainey, and an open gas stove was burning but that a gas jet on the wall was open but not burning.

CLOTHING CENTERS.

The department requires a group of at least twelve women sufficiently interested to attend a majority of the sessions. Any number above that may attend. The local people furnish the room for work, sewing machines, cutting tables, ironing boards and irons, and their personal equipment consisting of the usual sewing material, scissors, needles, thread, thimble, tape measure, tracing wheel, etc., and for the first part of the time no other material is needed excepting two yards of unbleached muslin or some other strong material for fitting.

The first problem taken up is the fitting of a plain shirtwaist pattern.

First the women are divided into groups and a fitting demonstration is given to each group. Through the fitting demonstration the women are shown where the lines of a pattern belong and how to meet the individual differences in form, such as sloping shoulders, very square shoulders, prominent shoulder blades, etc.

The women in charge are equipped with paper patterns in all the standard sizes so that each woman can find her own size and cut the waist and one sleeve from the material brought. The women then work in groups of two fitting each other according to directions given in the demonstration. This fitting is very carefully supervised and no important step taken until it has been approved. This teaches the women the problem of fitting by actually meeting it and the women in charge see that each woman has a well fitted pattern when the fitting is completed. One side of the pattern is fitted for a long waisted dress.

All the fitting lines in these patterns are carefully marked, the right and left side marked so that differences can be met when the pattern is used.

A waist can be cut and put together without fitting if these lines are carefully followed.

After this has been accomplished with all the women, they are taught how to use these patterns for under wear, plain shirtwaists, plaited and tucked waists, long waists dresses and one-piece dresses of various kinds.

The women choose a garment to be made which is suited to their individual ability. If a woman has never sewed at all, a piece of underwear is best at first while those who have done more work can begin upon waists or dresses.

The women are shown how to take each step in the making of the garment chosen so that power may be gained to do the same work next time. Beside this the women are encouraged to bring in any problem with which they need help: putting in sleeves, hanging skirts, putting on collars, making boys trousers, middies, pockets, tailored cuffs, bound buttonholes, etc.

OIL BOOM STARTS AT WHITESVILLE

Hornell, N. Y., March 29.—Whitesville is now the center of a big oil boom, acording to news coming from the field of operations today. The first well is now pumping 20 barrels a day and prospectors are flocking to the scene in large numbers.

One lease owner has been offered $10,000 for his lease, and other high bids are being made. In fact most o fthe territory has already been leased and large quantities of drillers' supplies are being rushed to the scene.

The territory is alive with prospectors and investors and drilling machinery is being shipped in from Wellsville and Olean as fast as possible. Several new companies have been formed to operate in that section and before the summer isover the territory will be thickly dotted with wells.

EAST SMETHPORT CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

Owing to the work which is being done in the East Smethport church there were no services last Sunday.

Besides the furnaces installed last December the work has consisted of remodeling and enlarging the choir gallery and platform with a neat altar rail in front, while the chairs, pulpit and benches have all recelved a coat of varnish which adds greatly to the appearance of the auditorium.

The prayer room also has come in for its share of improvements, including new curtains and table covers as well as paint and linoleum for the floor.

These give the room a much more home like appearance and will make the prayer meetings more enjoyable than ever.

We wish in this public way to express to all who have had a part in this work, who have contributed either with labor or otherwise our hearty thanks and appreciation.

The regular services will be resumed again beginning with prayer meeting. Thursday evening at 7:45, followed by choir rehearsal in preparation for the Easter Service.

In the Vosges mountains there lives an artist named Spindler, who produces the most entrancing compositions not in paint, but in wood alone. First he makes the sketch, and then with infinite patience and care he cuts the veneer and glues it to a backing and then welds it all in a press. Since Mr. Spindler never uses anything except wood in its natural color, he has to know a great deal about trees. In his workroom he has pieces of every kind of wood found in Europe and many pieces from other countries. He pictures clouds, rain, and everything that an artist can picture with paints. Some of his veneer takes him hours of study and fitting, and some of it is as fine as a hair. Mr. Spindler has wood of every shade of yellow, red, brown, black and white. He has almost all the shades of green also, but he finds the blues hard to get.—Columbus Dispatch.

Colleges Take "Washer Boys."

The large laundries are beginning to revised their price lists in keeping with the return to "normalcy," says the New York Sun, but this doesn't apply to Mr. John Chinaman's laundry. He admits he is getting cheaper soap and cheaper starch, but he insists China boys to do the work are scarcer and higher than ever. Many of the Chinese youths are going to universities and absorbing some of the finer occidental arts, and turn up their noses at pushing a gas iron in a laundry. It's only the old Chinese that will wash clothes, and they work slowly.

So, says Lee Sing, until things get a little more normal and the younger Chinese drop some of their higher educational ideas, he can't see how a laundry ticket can be exchanged for

A Wise Child.

In a west side school the pupils of the eighth grade were studying about the different Presidents of the United States. They had just finished Jefferson's administration, and Miss D., the teacher, asked:

"President Jefferson was known as what?"

Harry was quick with the answer.

"He was known as the Sage of the Age."

Before the teacher could ask another question, a hand shot up and a small boy asked:

"Miss D., what does sage mean?"

Harry was permitted to answer this one, too, and he said:

"Sage means wise."

Whereupon the small boy asked:

"Well, what's a sage hen, Miss D?"

Before she could explain, she was shocked to hear Harry, with disgust in his voice, turn to the small boy and say:

"Why a sage hen is a wise chicken, of course."—Indianapolis News.

The Usual Way.

"Hello, Fred! How did you get on in Scotland?"

"Oh, fine, Jack! We had grand weather all the time. By the by, do you know, I heard a funny thing when I was there."

"Indeed!" said Jack. "What was it?"

"Well, they told me that they didn't hang a man with a wooden leg in Scotland!"

"That's queer!" said Jack. "How's that?"

"Oh, they hang 'em with a rope as a rule!" was the reply.—London Answers.
